

DEMOCRATS GATHER FOR CEREMONIES

OUTLOOK IN WEST FINE, SAY LEADERS.

Enthusiasm for Governor Cox Runs High As Huge Crowd Assembles.

B. E. Adams in News and Courier.
Dayton, Ohio, Aug. 6.—"I admire a militant spirit," declared James M. Cox, Democratic nominee for president today, in speaking to the News and Courier correspondent regarding the action of delegates at San Francisco. The nominee added that "once the convention was over there were no McAdoo men, Palmer men or Cox men, but all Democrats are working for one and the same thing." Any statement that a Cox administration would hold anything against any state for its action at the convention is absolutely absurd, said the governor.

This city is gaily decorated for the notification event and delegations are arriving from many sections of the nation. National Committeeman John Gary Evans of Spartanburg and Mrs. Richard I. Manning of Sumter are expected here tonight. Assistant Secretary Franklin D. Roosevelt, the vice presidential nominee, and a number of administration officials will arrive tomorrow morning.

Cox Ohio's Favorite Son.

Arrangements have been made to take care of 75,000 visitors and the indications are that every available space will be taken and standing room will be at a premium. The "Meteor Band," which kicked up so much "Cox noise" at San Francisco, will be in the parade to add attractiveness to the big affair. Special trains are arriving tonight from all parts of the state bringing the Cox boosters by the thousands. Judging by the comment heard on every hand the governor is easily the most popular man in the Buckeye commonwealth.

Democratic leaders declare there will be no necessity for an interpreter in connection with the nominee's speech of acceptance. That every issue will be clearly and concisely dealt with is the opinion on every side. Democrats are jubilant in the belief that the address will be a masterpiece, which Republicans are troubled or fear it will be.

Big Marion Delegation.

A large delegation is coming from Marion, Senator Harding's home town, and in connection with statements made by Harding forces Gene Godden, chairman of the state Democratic committee, who lives in Marion, said "the sort of publicity coming out of the Harding headquarters is beneath the dignity of a race for constable."

"The delegation from Marion will be 'Marion in fact' and I can not understand why it should cause such disturbance in the Republican camp," declared Mr. Godden.

Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, chairman of the senatorial campaign committee, when approached by your correspondent concerning the plans for South Carolina, said: "We are going to draft you boys for work in other sections where a vigorous fight will be waged."

The report that Governor Cox would go to Tennessee to take part in the suffrage battle could not be confirmed.

Confident of the West.

At a conference with newspaper men at Trails End, it was announced by Chairman George E. White, of the National Democratic committee, that Senator Walsh, Montana, and Senator Pittman, Nevada, had accepted places in the organization and would handle the big fight to be staged in the West.

The press has been invited to attend a luncheon at the beautiful home of Governor Cox tomorrow, at which time it is expected the cover will be removed from the "important insert" in the candidate's speech of acceptance.

E. T. Meredith, secretary of agriculture, arrived here tonight and stated that "the vigorous and energetic campaign to be conducted by the Democratic candidate and his running mate would appeal very strongly to the men and women of the West." Mr. Meredith predicted that Governor Cox's appearance before the voters of the country would result in a great landslide to the Democratic fold.

from Marion." Another said, "No Cox never played a horn and he won't play second fiddle to any senate bunch." The governor got several laughs out of the banners, which included the statement: "A little too warm on the front porch."

Chicago, Aug. 7.—Senator Perry S. New of Indiana, chairman of the Republican campaign speakers' committee and member of the senate foreign relations committee, in a signed statement tonight declared that Governor Cox in his speech of acceptance today had "devoted three columns to the league of nations, but had straddled the real league issue."

"Governor Cox is in the position of holding fast to President Wilson with one hand and reaching for the public with the other," said the statement. "He leaves entirely unanswered in his speech the main issue of the league—Article 10—and no one knows how he stands on it except by interpreting his statement made after the conference with President Wilson as meaning that he favors it. Governor Cox must come out cleanly in the campaign and say whether he favors Article 10; whether he favors sending American troops abroad for his speech acceptance is unsatisfactory on that point."

Chicago, Aug. 7.—Governor Cox's failure to take a definite stand concerning a possible repeal of the Volstead act and the 18th amendment is "looked upon with great disfavor and disappointment by the Prohibition party," Virgil G. Hinshaw, chairman of the party's national committee, said tonight. He had previously characterized Senator Harding's stand on the question as "unsatisfactory."

"Neither candidate has taken the stand it was hoped he would take—namely, firm opposition to any change in the present laws affecting prohibition," said Mr. Hinshaw.

COX OUTLINES POSITION IN CLEAN CUT ADDRESS

tive bargaining by labor through its own representatives was approved by the governor, who added:

"We should not by law abridge a man's right either to labor or quit his employment. However, neither labor nor capital should take action that would put in jeopardy the public welfare.

Policy Should Be Plain.

"We need a definite and precise statement of policy as to what statesmen and workingmen may do by way of combination and collective action. The law is now so nebulous that it almost turns upon the predilections of the judge or jury. The rules of business should be made more certain so that on a stable basis men may move in confidence."

Disputes between capital and labor are inevitable, Governor Cox said and public opinion settles prolonged strikes. Declaring that "public opinion should determine in America," he said the government should occupy an impartial position, protect lives and property and, possibly at times, inquire into facts of a tieup.

"But facts and not conclusions," he said, "should be submitted."

Agricultural subjects formed another extensive feature of the candidate's speech, many expedients for agricultural development being advocated, increased reduction of tenantry, increased production, cooperative selling, as well as purchasing by farmers, establishment of municipal markets and "modern state rural school codes," and increased acreage by irrigation development. He also declared for government regulation of cold storage and a time limit on storage products.

Advocating more home owners, Governor Cox said that under Democratic rule "the prosperity of the country has been widely diffused."

Praising American youth for its war service, Governor Cox declared that the nation owes a debt to those who died and their dependents and to the wounded, who should be trained and rehabilitated. Also, he said, "we must realize that considerable compensation is due those who lost much by the break in their material hopes and aspirations."

The Mexican situation, the governor stated, has been "trying our patience for years," but now begins to show signs of improvement.

"Not the least of the things that have contributed to it," he continued, "is a realization by the people of that country that we have neither lust for their domain, nor disposition to disturb their sovereign rights."

On the railroad question Governor Cox advocated giving "a thorough test to private ownership" under government regulation, the latter now being accepted, he said. Financial credit for the roads, he stated, should be provided. Discrediting of government operation of the carriers was deplored as "unfair" and "insincere."

Reduction by Taxation.

A pledge for "heavy" and immediate reduction of federal taxation was made by the nominee, who said that with economy, $2,000,000,000 could be lopped off. He advocated repeal of "annoying consumption taxes" and said incomes of wage earners, agricultural producers and salaried, professional and small business men should be "sharply modified." He suggested, in lieu of excess profits taxes, "a small tax, probably of 1 or 1 1/2 per cent. on the total business of every going concern." He also urged "making the holders of hidden wealth pay their share (of taxes) with those whose property is in sight."

Advocating reform of federal agencies and activities, including establishment of a budget system, the governor said the government could be run on $4,000,000,000 annually, including sinking fund and national debt interest. Disarmament provisions of the league of nations, he added, constitute "an appealing fundamental" and its loss a surety of armament burdens.

The federal reserve act was commended at length as the greatest factor in America's war efforts next to personal sacrifices of the people. The law is a Democratic achievement, he said, enacted "against the protests of the bitter Republican stand-patters." In its development he recommended establishing foreign banks in trade centers and urged Americans to guard the law, declaring it should be "kept from the hands of those who have never been its friends."

Repeal of war laws restricting freedom of speech and assembly and liberty of the press was advocated, together with Americanization of alien residents and extension of education work "without encroachment by the federal government on local control."

Conservation of children by prevention of child labor, adequate pay for government employees, short shift for anarchistic agitators and development of waterway transportation were other affirmative policies the governor enunciated.

"I accept the nomination of our party," he said in conclusion, "obedient to the divine sovereign of all peoples, and hopeful that by trust in Him the way will be shown for helpful service."

STIRRING LIFE STORY IS "OUT OF THE STORM"

"Out of the Storm," latest Eminent Authors production by Gertrude Atherton, is a story of romance and will hold its audiences from the first reel to the last. It is a tale of two countries, America and England, and the relationship, formalities to overcome and difficulty that a young English lord experiences before he finally marries a girl of his choice.

Margaret Hill, sympathetically portrayed by Barbara Castleton, is a singer in a disreputable resort. Her voice appeals to Albert Levering (Sydney Ainsworth) and he offers to have it cultivated. He supports her, until, at the expiration of two years, Levering is arrested for embezzlement and Margaret is thrown upon the world with her voice as her only asset. She goes to America and after a long and hard struggle gains renown and is sent on an operatic tour through England. There she meets her lover, a young English nobleman and marries him, but Levering is released from prison and returns to claim his prestege. Margaret Hill is happy and she has her choice between happiness and duty to Levering from which to choose. Her choice may be seen in "Out of the Storm," which comes to the opera house Tuesday.

One of the most ludicrous situations ever filmed appears in "In Search of a Sinner," Constance Talmadge's latest Emerson-Loos production, released through First National Exhibitors' circuit, which begins a one day's run at the opera house Thursday.

The afore-mentioned situation takes place in the dining room of the Astor hotel, during a banquet tendered Jack Garrison by "The Purity League." Sitting directly opposite Garrison at another table is Georgiana Chadburne played by Constance Talmadge a charming, widow of twenty, who tried to make Garrison make love to her in her apartment on the previous night. Garrison is presented with a loving cup by the chairman of the Purity league who terms him "a good man on the straight and narrow path." As Garrison rises to make his speech of acceptance his eye falls on Georgiana, and his tongue does a tail spin. The Purity leaguers glare at the apparent vampire, take the cup away from Garrison and the banquet ends up in a rcligh house.

Miss Talmadge is supported by Radcliffe Fellows, Marjorie Milton and Corliss Giles.

A Year's Abuse In 7 Days

All Light Car Road Records Smashed

At Indianapolis recently an Overland 4 stock car was driven 5,452 miles continuously in seven days and nights, over frozen country roads.

This is an average of 778 miles per day—more than the distance between Toledo and New York City. This is another tribute to the cushioning effect of Triplex Springs and the quality of material in Overland 4.
